THE FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Domestic Hints and Helps.

MILDEWED LINEN.—When white linen becomes mildewed it should be washed in warm water, with a little borax, and then rinsed in clean water. After this it must be put into a tub containing a little hydrochloric acid; then rinsed and dried in the sun.

SWEETENED RICE.—One quart of milk and one teacup of rice; boil until the rice is very soft and is thickened; add the beaten yolk of two eggs, half teaspoonful of salt, one and a half teacups of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of lemon flavoring. After stirring all together turn into a platter and sift about half a teaspoonful of cinnamon over it. Serve ice cold. The whites of the eggs may be added as a meringue. This is a delicious dessert, especially in summer.

RICE CROQUETTES.—Boil half a cupful of rice; when cold add one pint of milk, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, two eggs, one tablespoonful of butter, melted; half teaspoonful of salt. Flour your hands and make into oval balls, dip in beaten egg and then in rolled cracker—fry in lard. Eat hot as a vegetable.

BAKED MASHED POTATOES.—Three and a half cupfuls of mashed potatoes, one teacupful of milk, one heaping teaspoonful of butter, quarter teaspoonful of pepper, one scant teaspoonful of salt. Butter a pudding dish and bake a light brown.

WASHINGTON PIE.—Three fresh eggs, well beaten; one and a half teacups of sugar added and well beaten, one teacupful of flour, with one teaspoonful of cream tartar rubbed in, half teacupful of cold water with half teaspoonful of soda dissolved in it, another teacupful of flour, one and a half teaspoonfuls of lemon flavoring. Bake in two jelly cake tins.

CREAM FILLING.—Half teacup of sugar, one egg, quarter cupful of flour, beaten together and stirred into half pint of boiling milk; a little salt and one and a half teaspoonfuls of lemon. Boil and stir until it thickens.—Housekeeper.

Clover a Good Subsoiler.

A member of the American farmers' club who, a few years ago, thought that deep plowing was a cure for all the ills that soils are heir to, thinks now that thousands of acres have been permanently injured by injudicious deep plowing which threw the fertile surface soil to the bottom of a deep furrow, and brought the cold subsoil to the surface. As this did not work well he tried the subsoil plow which loosened the subsoil, admitted air and moisture and allowed the roots to strike deeper than they otherwise would. But in many cases the subsoil plow will not secure these objects, but instead prove an injury to the soil. Both plowing and subsoiling break up the natural water drains which have been established in heavy soil, and may thus enable it to hold more water in a moderately wet season, but with the certainty of making the soil water-soaked and unproductive whenever a very wet season comes. In the instances where subsoiling has proved beneficial it has probably been followed by seasons when there was no more rain than the subsoil could hold without saturation. Subsoiling is a good preparation for the clover plant, as it enables its root to strike deep and make a vigorous growth. The large clover plants striking into the sub soil speedily re-establish the closed water courses and leave the soil light and rich. Clover, according to this member's experience, is the best and safest subsoiler. It leaves in its decay rich plant food, which corn, wheat, etc., can follow downward, and after all nutriment has been absorbed the pole in the soil which the clover root leaves acts as a useful draining, and dispenses with a great deal of underdraining that would otherwise be necessary. Clover is oftenest grown on light, sandy or gravelly soils, as farmers find it a hard matter to get a good catch on heavy loams or clays. But a good growth of clover will renovate such soil; on it apply all the manure that can be spared to encourage the clover to a vigorous growth. With each succeeding clover crop it will be more easy to get a good growth, and the clover roots will strike deeper and deeper into the subsoil. The member added that as a preparation for a clover crop the subsoil plow may do good service; but, excepting for this, it is much better to trust clover alone as the true and safest subsoiler.

Liquid Grafting Wax.

The Horticulturist gives the following formula for making Lefort's liquid grafting wax, which is said to have been highly commended in France, and until lately kept secret: Melt one pound of common rosin over a gentle fire. Add to it an ounce of beef tallow and stir it well. Take it from the fire, let it cool down a little, and then mix with a teaspoonful of spirits of turpentine, and after that about seven ounces of very strong alcohol (sixty-five per cent.). The alcohol cools it down so rapidly that it will be necessary to put it again on the fire, stirring it constantly. Still the utmost care must be exercised to keep the alcohol from getting inflamed. To avoid it the best way is to remove the vessel from the fire when the lump that may have been formed commences melting again. This must be continued till this is a homogeneous mass similar to honey. After a few days' exposure to the atmosphere, it assumes a whitish color, and becomes as hard as stone, being impervious to water or air.

A clean tooth does not decay. Acids, sour fruit, always injure the teeth instantly; sweets never do; without them children would die, hence their insatiable instincts for sugar. If a tooth powder was never used the teeth would not be so white; but, kept perfectly clean, would last for life.

Midas, we read, with wondrous art of old,
Whate'er he touched at once transformed to gold.
This, modern statesmen can reverse with ease—
Touch them with gold they'll turn to what you please.

FORTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

A Condensation of the Important Business Transacted.

SENATE.

Mr. Withers (Dem.), of Virginia, from the committee on appropriations, reported House bill No. 2,589, to supply the deficiency for feeding the Sioux Indians. He moved to strike out the word "$100,000" and insert "$150,000." Agreed to, and the bill passed.

The Chair laid before the Senate the military bill from the House with the notification that the House fail to concur in the amendments of the Senate. The Senate agreed to adhere to the amendments and asked a committee of conference, and Senators Sargent, Cockrell, and Harvey were appointed on the part of the Senate.

The committee on appropriations reported back the Military Academy bill, with a recommendation that the Senate adhere to its amendments, and ask for a committee of conference. Agreed to, and Messrs. Allison, Logan, and Wallace were appointed as conferees on the part of the Senate.

Mr. Jones (Rep.), of Nevada, introduced a bill to prohibit the transportation of liquid nitro-glycerine, and to regulate the transportation of dynamite. Referred. The bill absolutely prohibits the transportation from one State or Territory to another, or to or from a foreign country, of nitro-glycerine in any other form than that of dynamite, and prohibits the transportation of the latter substance except by merely freight conveyances, and on condition that it is packed in metallic cases, and unaccompanied with any means of exploding it. In the event of a death being caused by explosion when dynamite is transported in any other manner, every person who knowingly permitted or aided in its transportation is to be deemed guilty of manslaughter.

The Chair laid before the Senate the House bill in relation to political contributions. Referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

The Senate took up for consideration the Post Route bill. Mr. Hamlin (Rep.), of Maine, said the committee had paid personal attention to all the proposed routes, and had made personal inquiry from different members as to the necessity of all they had proposed. After some discussion the bill was amended as to minor points and passed.

The Senate resumed consideration of the bill to count the votes of President and Vice-President, and the bill was passed by a vote of 32 yeas to 26 nays.

HOUSE.

Mr. Hopkins (Dem.), of Pennsylvania, to regulate commerce and prohibit unjust discrimination by common carriers.

Mr. Cabell (Dem.), of Virginia, to reduce the tax on manufactured tobacco, and to regulate the tax on dealers and producers of leaf tobacco.

Mr. Banning (Lib.), of Ohio, to repeal the law providing that certified balances of the commissioner of customs and the comptroller of the treasury shall not be revised or changed by the heads of departments.

Mr. Riddell (Dem.), of Tennessee, for the elections of postmasters in all cities and incorporated towns.

Mr. Atkins (Dem.), of Tennessee, moved to suspend the rules and pass the bill repealing all the provisions of the act of the fourteenth of January, 1875, for the resumption of specie payments, that authorize the secretary of the treasury to redeem and cancel United States notes, and to sell United States bonds for the accomplishment of that purpose. The motion was rejected by a vote of 108 nays to 109 yeas, not two-thirds voting in the affirmative.

Mr. Caulfield (Dem.), of Illinois, from the judiciary committee, reported the bill making it a misdemeanor for any person in the employment of the United States to solicit or contribute funds for election purposes, or to canvass in any election in any State, county, or district in the United States. Mr. Blaine (Rep.), of Maine, offered a proposed amendment to the bill, prohibiting election contributions from government clerks. The amendment is to include senators, representatives and delegates in Congress, and to add these words: And the contribution of money or other valuable thing, as herein prohibited, by any senator, representative, or delegate in Congress, while he was a candidate for Congress, shall, in addition to the penalties prescribed, operate as a disqualification to his holding his seat.

Mr. Wells (Rep.), of Mississippi, introduced a bill to pay bounties to colored soldiers and their widows and heirs. Referred.

The House took up the bill reported from the judiciary committee, prohibiting contributions to election funds by officers of the United States government, the question being on the amendment of Mr. Blaine to extend the application of the bill to senators, representatives, and delegates in Congress.

After a long debate the House proceeded to vote on the bill and various amendments. Mr. Townsend's amendment, providing that expenditures for election purposes allowed by the law of any State should not be construed as being affected by the act, was rejected.

Mr. Blaine's amendment, including senators, representatives, and delegates in Congress in the provisions of the bill, was agreed to—yeas 128, nays 88.

Mr. Hoar's amendment, providing that nothing in the bill should prevent voluntary contributions for the purpose of circulating documents for the purpose of giving information, was rejected—yeas 91, nays 119.

Other amendments were rejected, and then the next vote was on Mr. Brown's substitute. The first section reads:

That no officer or employee of the government shall require or request, give to or receive from any other officer or employee of the same, or other person, directly or indirectly, any money or property or other thing of value for political purposes; and any such officer or employee who shall offend against the provisions of this act shall at once be dismissed from the service of the United States, and also be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, fined not less than $500 nor more than $3,000, and imprisoned not more than one year, at the discretion of the judge trying the case

The second section is the amendment offered by Mr. Cobbe, of Virginia, and adopted. The third section gives United States district courts jurisdiction of the offenses created by the act. The substitute was agreed to without the yeas and nays, and the bill as thus amended was passed—yeas, 173; nays, 8.

Bills were passed: Prohibiting the cutting of timber on any Indian reservation or lands to which the Indian title or right of occupancy has not been extinguished; repealing the law which forbids the appointment to any position in the army of any person who served in any capacity in the military, naval, or civil service of the Confederate States in the late civil war.

A Disgraceful Affair.

Mrs. Rose Young, of Brooklyn, N. Y., on Monday left her home to visit friends in New York. She did not return when expected, and was last seen alive entering a street car to go to Brooklyn. On Tuesday, about one P. M., her body was found by a lighterman floating in the East river. Ropes were attached to the body by an officer, and it was towed into a dock and tied fast to a pier.

There, half submerged, it was allowed to toss in the waves. Tightly clasped in one hand the drowned woman held a pocketbook containing a little silver money and two pawn tickets. She was respectably dressed, and looked to be about thirty-five years old. A throng soon gathered to look at the body and wonder at its being tied in that manner. About six o'clock her husband, James Young, a watchman in Brooklyn, recognized the drowned woman as his wife. Seized with grief and horror at the strange situation of the body, he wanted it removed, but he was refused until the coroner gave him permission. The distracted husband was told that he had no right to lift his wife's body from the dock. So it remained rising and falling with the tide, and nearly all night the poor husband, who had two or three children at home crying for their mother's return, walked the piers and saw the body of his wife the plaything of the waves, while the wind fluttered her floating garments. When the South street merchants and others who had seen the body made fast to the pier crossed the ferry to New York the next morning, they were amazed to see the drowned woman still tossing in the water and the unhappy husband still waiting for the coroner's permission to claim his dead wife. Their horror became indignation as the hours wore on, and the crowd of idlers gazing at the body grew larger and more unfeeling. It was almost twelve o'clock before the dead wagon arrived and the body was taken from the water.

"How like its father it is," exclaimed the nurse, on the occasion of the christening of a baby whose father was over seventy and had married a young wife. "Very likely," replied a satirical lady; "bald, and not a tooth in its head."

Bleeding from Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption. A Wonderful Cure.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 13th, 1874.

R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir—I had suffered from catarrh in an aggravated form for about twelve years and for several years from bronchial trouble. Tried many doctors and things with no lasting benefit. In May, '72, becoming nearly worn out with excessive editorial labors on a paper in New York city, I was attacked with bronchitis in a severe form, suffering almost a total loss of voice. I returned home here, but had been home only two weeks when I was completely prostrated with hemorrhage from the lungs, having four severe bleeding spells within two weeks, and first three inside nine days. In the September following I improved sufficiently to be able to be about, though in a very feeble state. My bronchial trouble remained and the catarrh was tenfold worse than before. Every effort for relief seemed fruitless. I seemed to be losing ground daily. I continued in this feeble state, raising blood almost daily until about the first of March, '73, when I became so bad as to be entirely confined to the house. A friend suggested your remedies. But I was extremely skeptical that they would do me good, as I had lost all heart in remedies, and begun to look upon medicines and doctors with disgust. However, I obtained one of your circulars, and read it carefully, from which I came to the conclusion that you understood your business, at least. I finally obtained a quantity of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, your Golden Medical Discovery and Pellets, and commenced their vigorous use according to directions. To my surprise, I soon begun to improve. The Discovery and Pellets, in a short time, brought out a severe eruption, which continued for several weeks. I felt much better, my appetite improved, and I gained in strength and flesh. In three months every vestige of the catarrh was gone, the bronchitis had nearly disappeared, had no cough whatever, and had entirely ceased to raise blood; and, contrary to the expectation of some of my friends, the cure has remained permanent. I have had no more hemorrhages from the lungs, and am entirely free from catarrh, from which I had suffered so much and so long. The debt of gratitude I owe for the blessing I have received at your hands, knows no bounds. I am thoroughly satisfied, from my experience, that your medicines will master the worst forms of that odious disease catarrh, as well as throat and lung diseases. I have recommended them to very many and shall ever speak in their praise.

Gratefully yours,
W. H. SPENCER.

To Our Lady Readers.

We clip the following from a recent number of Harper's Ladies' Bazar, on account of the, to us, new theory of Cosmetic. This lady at least gives her patrons the advantage of knowing what they are using:

MISS KOOLE INTERVIEWED.

REPORTER.—I called this morning to learn from your own lips fuller particulars regarding your new theory of Cosmetic for the Complexion.

MISS K.—I will aid you to the extent of my ability. You cannot do a better kindness than to warn against the use of the Powders and Liquids so generally used in this country.

REPORTER.—Your skin shows no indications of ill treatment (she has a beautiful complexion).

MISS K.—No; thanks to Prof. Habener, of Vienna. For about four years I used powders and washes, until I had ruined my skin. I looked older at thirty, over ten years ago, than now.

REPORTER.—Did the professor acquaint you with his treatment of your case?

MISS K.—Yes; it is no secret and simplicity itself. He asked me to see the Cosmetic I was using and pronounced it villainous. Said there should be a law to punish people who would offer such hurtful preparations to the public. He gave me the formula which I am now offering to the ladies.

REPORTER.—But what is the theory of this treatment?

MISS K.—Common sense. Every pore has its little repository or sac, just under the skin, containing fatty matter. Now, what makes children's skin so smooth and fair is the fact that the pores are closed, or nearly so, and protects the contents of these little receptacles. As we grow older, by the use of soap in washing and in many other ways, the pores become relaxed, or opened, and this fatty substance, which is the health-giving principle to the skin, is destroyed. His theory is to close the pores or contract them to protect what nature placed under them.

REPORTER.—That certainly is good logic. But does it whiten the skin when applied?

MISS K.—Yes; a brunette may become a blonde temporarily. It produces a fresh, youthful look to the skin.

REPORTER.—Why do you not prepare it and put it up before the public in the ordinary way?

MISS K.—I prefer to furnish the ladies with the receipt; they can then see they are using nothing injurious; can procure it at any druggist's at a mere nominal expense; I charge the $1 to meet the expenses of advertising.

REPORTER.—You know it is beneficial to the skin?

MISS K.—Yes, from experience; besides I have given it to some of our best physicians, who now prescribe it.

REPORTER.—Then I will say to lady readers they can get the formula by sending $1 to Miss J. M. KOOLE, P. O. Box 4130, New York City.

MISS K.—If you please; thank you.

Dr. SCHENCK'S STANDARD REMEDIES.

The standard remedies for all diseases of the lungs are SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, and SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, and, if taken before the lungs are destroyed, a speedy cure is effected.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary diseases.

The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs; nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off; the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To enable the Pulmonic Syrup to do this, Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative; the alkali of which it is composed mixes with the food and prevents souring. It assists the digestion by toning up the stomach to a healthy condition so that the food and the Pulmonic Syrup will make good blood; then the lungs heal, and the patient will surely get well if care is taken to prevent fresh cold.

All who wish to consult Dr. Schenck, either personally or by letter, can do so at his principal office, corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, every Monday.

Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists throughout the country.

IMPERIAL CRANUM. THE GREAT MEDICINAL FOOD.

This justly celebrated DIETETIC Preparation is, in composition, principally the GLUTEN derived from the White Winter Flint Wheat Cereal, a solid extract, the invention of an eminent chemist.

It has not only been highly recommended but certified to by a large number of CHEMISTS and PHYSICIANS—representing a very high degree of medical science—as the SAFEST, MOST ACCEPTABLE AND RELIABLE FOOD for the growth of Infants and Children, and Mothers lacking sufficient nourishment for their offspring.

Unlike those preparations made from animal or vinous matter, which are liable to stimulate the brain and irritate the digestive organs, it embraces in its elementary composition

THAT WHICH MAKES STRONG BONE AND MUSCLE.
THAT WHICH MAKES GOOD FLESH AND BLOOD.
THAT WHICH IS EASY OF DIGESTION—NEVER CONSTIPATING.
THAT WHICH IS KIND AND FRIENDLY TO THE BRAIN.
AND THAT WHICH ACTS AS A PREVENTIVE OF THOSE INTESTINAL DISORDERS INCIDENTAL TO CHILDHOOD.

And while it would be difficult to conceive of anything in Food or Dessert more creamy and delicious, or more nourishing and strengthening as an aliment in

FEVERS, PULMONARY COMPLAINTS, DYSPEPSIA, PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, OR GENERAL DEBILITY,

Its rare medicinal excellence in all Intestinal Diseases, especially in

has been incontestibly proven.

See circulars for testimonials. Sold by Druggists generally, and at the Wholesale Depot by JOHN CARLE & SONS, 153 Water Street, cor. Maiden Lane, New York.
